Campbell's Sunsweet Day Float

Campbell's attractive float in the First Annual New Era Exposition parade in San Jose last Saturday expressed a beauty of line and mass that showed the touch of a real artist. The credit for the harmonious blending of the yellow and blue colors of the Prune and Apricot Growers'Association was due Mrs. James Turner, who is a talented artist and was untiring in her care tor detail that gave a rythmic balance to the whole. The float was mounted on a large truck. Decorating the center was a large horn of plenty with hundreds of natural sized apricots and prunes flowing out. So very cleverly constructed and painted were these paper fruits that they seemed nature's very own. Sitting by the decorated posts at the four corners of the float were young girls wearing yellow crepe dresses, and blue sashes, ecru hats, trimmed artistically with apricots and prunes, and carrying on their arms baskets filled with the same fruits. The quaint little misses who gave this realistic touch to the pretty picture were Marie Fammatre, Henrietta Toles, Irene Preston, and Ilda Williams. A large banner over the top bore the Suusweet Trade Mark of the Association, and the very appropriate motto; "By This Sign We Conquer." Campbell may well be proud of her part in the parade expressed so simply and beautifully in featuring the two main products of this prosperous "Orchard City." A number of women helped in constructing the paper fruits, but because most of the appointed committee were too busy to attend to the float, the greater part of the work was done by Mr. and Mrs. J. Turner, C. H. Whitman, G. S. Robson, and J. F. Duncan,. These few people shouldered the responsibility and in a few days had completed a float which received much applause, and many compliments all along the line of march. It was indeed a very artistic addition to the parade and Campbell was justly proud of it.

WHEN REYNOLDS FELL

Death of Great Commander Brought Disaster Near to Army of the Potomac.

THE first day's fight at Gettysburg was a gloomy one for the Union forces, and had the Confederates known of the complete disorganization of the federal troops they might have pursued and captured a large part of the army. General Meade was several miles from the field when he received news of the death of Reynolds. He at once sent Hancock to take general charge until he himself should arrive. General Hancock came on the field late in the afternoon and his presence had a tendency to cheer the fallen spirits of the men. He assured them that re-enforcements would arrive during the night, and that victory was surely in sight on the morrow.

Thus ended the first day's fight on that great battlefield, hours before the arrival of General Meade, and had it been all to tell of Gettysburg another defeat of the Army of the Potomac by Lee's gallant sons of the South would have been added to the many which had preceded it. But both of the commanding generals decided to continue the engagement there, and orders were issued to gather in their respective outlying forces for the terrible carnage which would follow on the morrow's morn. Lee had lost Jackson at Chancellorsville — perhaps the greatest corps commander the world has ever known—and there was no one to take his place. Stuart for some unaccountable reason had failed to appear on that day and his exact whereabouts were unknown. But Meade had gathered in all his available forces and the two armies rested that night within a short distance of each other, waiting the coming of the dawn, when the trumpets should sound the roll call for the day—the last one on earth to many thousands of those brave soldiers who on that beautiful July day were to go to their final call beyond the grave.

In Splendor Wrapped

COUNTRY DOES NOT FORGET

Observances of Memorial Day Prove That All Republics Have Not Been Found Ungrateful.

Memorial day is the answer to the charge that "republics are ungrateful." Our country does not forget its soldiers. In marble and bronze their resting places are marked. The resources of our speech have been taxed in commemorating their deeds. On the 30th of May the sweetest of flowers are laid upon their grave mounds in token at once of a patriotic devotion and of immortality. The most striking part of this annual remembrance of our dead is the dramatic spectacle of the old soldiers—the thin blue line moving with tottering step toward the sacred dust of their comrades. The old flags, torn with shot and stained with powder, recall without bitterness the past and revive recollections without rancor.

On sea and land fall flowers of a tender and patriotic affection for the men of the navy and army.

It is well to remember what these heroes did. We honor principles when we respect men, for principles are men in the abstract. A dispassionate interpretation of the causes and consequences of the war will be a tribute to the dead, and a contribution to the living. The men who made up the rank and file of our armies, the military leaders and the statesmen who directed the movement through the fogs and smoke of war are recalled in the solemn memories of the day.

U. S. Increases Crop Acreage

More Than 56,000,000 Acres Are Added in the Last Ten Years, Government Statistics Show

More than 56,000,000 acres have been added to the country's aggregate crop acreage in the last ten years. Statistics announced by the department of agriculture show the country's aggregate last year to have been 367,738,000 acres, or 605,840 square miles. That is more than one-fifth of the total land area of continental United States, almost 2½ times the size of the state of Texas and about ten times the land area of the entire New England states. The number of farms in the United States is estimated at 6,717,000.

Texas has the largest aggregate crop acreage with 25,328,000 acres, or a little more than one-sixth of her total land area.

Kansas is second with 22,588,000 acres, or almost one-half of her entire land area.

Illinois is third with 21,727,000 acres, or about three-sevenths of her land area.

Iowa is in fourth place with 21,613,000 acres, which is about three-sevenths of her land area.

The aggregate crop acreage, which includes those of corn, wheat, barley, oats, rye, buckwheat, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, flax, rice, hay, cotton, peanuts, kafir, beans, broom corn, hops and cranberries, and the number of farms by states, follow:

OF INTEREST TO POULTRY GROWERS

It is especially important that surplus cockerels be utilized as capons to increase the meat supply. Capons, or male birds whose reproductive organs have been removed, increase in weight and their meat is of good quality.

To determine the best time to caponize one should be guided by the age and size of the bird. A cockerel two to four months of age and weighing one and a half to two and a half pounds is a convenient-sized bird with which to work.

There are three essentials to good results in caponizing. First, the bird should not be fed for 36 hours prior to the operation so that the intestines will be empty and the reproductive organs exposed; second, the operation should be performed in a strong light in order that the organs may be clearly distinguished; third, one should have a good set of tools.

The skilled operator can caponize a bird in a short time. Birds which have been operated on should be placed in a house from which the roosts have been removed. Give caponized birds a soft feed for ten days after the operation, after which they may be placed on a scratch food ration. The wet feed may consist of two pounds corn meal, one pound of bran and one pound of middlings mixed with skimmilk or buttermilk.

The first two weeks capons should be examined for "windpuffs." These can be easily relieved by pricking the skin with a needle or a knife. Two or three weeeks prior to marketing, confine and fatten capons in crates. Every ounce of gain at this time adds to the appearance of and the profits from the bird.

Men Who Want More.

Bolsheviki means "men who want more." It is the name of the Russian party which advocates the upsetting of all government. Spartacan means a member of the Spartacist party in Germany, which is a faction of the social democrats. The party adopted its name from Spartacus, leader in the slave war against Rome (73-71 B. C.), a Thracian by birth, who organized the Roman slaves in rebellion.

Lizards With Beautifully Marked Wings, Resembling Species of the Butterfly

At least one lizard enjoys, to a certain degree, the power of sailing through the air, as in the cases of flying squirrels, flying frogs of Borneo and some other animals. These lizards are called flying dragons, and they are all small-sized forms found in the Indo-Malayan region.

They possess elongated ribs in mid series, some five to seven pairs of them; these ribs support, on either side of the body, a semi-transparent membrane, it being stretched over them both dorsally and ventrally, united at the free margins and continuous with the general integument of the body.

These "wings," so called, close up like a fan when not in use and fall to the sides of the animal, but when spread form a parachute of marked effectiveness, as by its use this lizard can leap from the limb of a tree and sail to another one at certain distances as well as a phalanger or a flying lemur. Sometimes these "wings" in certain species of the flying dragons are beautifully marked, resembling the wing markings of some butterflies.

The Banana Described.

The banana has only won wide favor in England during the past quarter century. It was not unknown, however, half a century ago, for B. L. Blanchard, the dramatist, records in his "Autobiography"—July 7, 1864—tasted bananas for the first time—a vegetable sausage tasting like marrow flavored with pineapple."

BUGLE BLASTS

The thump of the heart is the best drum-beat. Keep step with it.

In war, selfishness is a mighty poor bomb-proof.

Late advices indicate that the Huns continue to fight and whine.

Kingly tradition is last year's bird's nest of politics.

Grizzly Bear Never Eats Human Flesh; Not Ferocious —Fights When Necessary

The grizzly bear has been known to the white race a little more than a century. Lewis and Clark wrote the first official accounts of him in 1805, and he was first discussed publicly in 1814 by Gov. De Witt Clinton in New York city. Guthrie's old geography says that he was named Ursus horribilus by Naturalist George Ord in 1815. Fossil records indicate that the grizzly is of Asiatic origin. He appears to have come into America about a million years ago over one of the prehistoric land bridges that united Alaska and Asia. Bears and dogs are descendants from the same parent stock. The grizzly bear never eats human flesh, is not ferocious and fights only in self-defense. He leads an adventurous life, is a born explorer and ever has good wilderness manners—never makes attacks. The numerous cases in which the grizzly has been made a pet and companion of man, where he was thoughtfully, intelligently raised, show him to be a superior animal, dignified, intelligent, loyal and uniformly good-tempered.

Not a grizzly exists in any of the four national parks of California, and that animal, once so celebrated in that state, is extinct there. He is also extinct over the greater portion of the vast territory which he formerly occupied, and is verging on extermination.

Torres Strait Islanders Have Their Own Idea of Showing Respect to Dead

The natives of the Torres Strait islands have their own ideas about showing respect to the dead. One way is to anoint the body with half the contents of a bottle of cheap scent sold by the enterprising Orientals. The rest of the bottle is corked up and left on the grave. There is a tiny grave on Moa at the foot of which is a baby's feeding-bottle—the probable cause of the unfortunate infant's death. Though some of the larger islands have cemeteries, graves are scattered all over the place. Generally decorated with empty and inverted rum bottles, they are often found beside the corpse's late residence. Where the relatives have been more ambitious—or better off—a "proper marble" has been procured from Townsville or some other coastal town. The setting-up of one of these stones is the excuse for a general gorge. Such an event recently took place at Darnley, where a "proper stone" was erected over the grave of the late Mamoose—head man or king. The ceremony was followed by a three-days' gorge of pig, yams, turtle, etc., which was shaken down—and room made for more—by vigorous dancing and singing by all hands.

Mother's Cook Book.

Family Food.

Cornmeal, if freshly ground with the germ left in it, is so much superior to the ordinary, long keeping cornmeal, that there is no comparison. In many up-to-date homes a small mill is used to grind wheat and corn when needed.

Corn Bread.

Take two cupfuls of cornmeal, two cupfuls of sour milk, two tablespoonfuls of shortening, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, two eggs, one teaspoonful of soda and one tablespoonful of cold water.

Veal and Cornmeal Scrapple.

Cook a pound of veal until tender, then chop fine and return to the liquor, which should measure five cupfuls; add one pint of canned tomatoes, one chopped onion, one clove of garlic, chopped, twenty-four olives, chopped, one tablespoonful of chili powder, one chopped chili pepper, three teaspoonfuls of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful each of paprika and pepper; add gradually enough cornmeal (mixed with cold water to moisten) and cook until thoroughly cooked. Pour into a dish and when cold roll in flour and fry in fat.

Corn Pudding.

Take two cupfuls of canned corn (or fresh is better), one sweet pepper cut fine; scald three tablespoonfuls of fine cornmeal with one and one-half cupfuls of scalding milk and let stand until cold. Add the corn, pepper and a beaten egg with a teaspoonful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of fat. Bake in a slow oven for an hour or more, stirring it the first half-hour a few times, then let it brown. Dried corn, softened, may be used in place of canned corn for this dish.

Language Employed in the Wording of Peace Treaties

The language employed in treaties is usually of the most formal character, but occasionally, when treaties are considered with eastern powers a more florid style is used. At any rate, according to a correspondent, a treaty between Great Britain and Persia begins: "Praise be to God the All-Perfect and All-Sufficient. These happy leaves are a nosegay plucked from the thornless garden of concord, and tied by the hands of the plenipotentiaries of the two great states in the form of a definite treaty in which the articles of friendship and amity are blended."

ALL-DAY FROCK OF TAFFETA

When milady desires to spend the day without changing frocks she will find this costume especially designed for her need. It has a Fisher neckpiece and a stunning winged toque of tete d'Nigre straw and satin. Blouse is accordeon pleated taffeta.

REVIVE SMOCK FOR SERVICE

Loose Garment Is in the List of Wearables for This Spring and Summer.

Many, many years—centuries in fact—the peasants in France have worn the loose garment known as a smock, and no one challenged their right to a monopoly on that garment. Then some time in the last century artists—sculptors and painters—began wearing this type of garment in their ateliers and studios until that shapeless, comfortable garment came to suggest all that one associates with French studio life. It was not unnatural that artists on this side of the Atlantic took to the smock as a matter of convenience as well as because of association.

Next the smock was borrowed for some rather extreme garden frocks. And it was considered really extreme when it first was worn out of the studio. But it became popular, and it was featured as a sport garment, and then every one went about in smocks. In fact, it went the way of all things popular to oblivion.

Then—and the vogue of the smock had nothing to do with the tendency—the blouse that extends below the waistline came into being. It supplants to a certain extent the old-time blouse that is tucked into the waist of the skirt.

And, so far from appearing extreme or outlandish, sloppy or graceless, the type of garment known as the smock is the most natural thing we could don for garden wear and sport wear and wear about the house. So the smock is revived for the spring and summer.

NEW CHIFFONS AND CREPE

Corn-Color Taffeta Combined With Yellow and White Georgette Create Chic Spring Frock.

Along with all the other blessings of the season, spring has brought with it the most delightful new chiffons and georgette crepes in quaint designs, notes a fashion correspondent.

Corn-color taffeta combined with yellow and white georgette to create one of the loveliest little frocks I have seen for spring. The material was white and was plentifully sprinkled with yellow corn leaves, conventionalized into a clever design.

Frills are frivolous, and this frock was indeed gay with its numerous tiny taffeta ruffles set on several inches below the waist and continuing to the ankles. The bodice, too, was quaint, with its square neck and long flare sleeves. Ruffles about an inch wide outline the neck and sleeves, and were set on three rows deep. And then to enhance the delicate beauty of the crepe there was a narrow blue grosgrain sash with long ends drooping in back. The butterfly daintiness of the frock appeals strongly to that delightful age known as the "teens."

The New Embroideries.

More handwork is being done on frocks than ever, it seems, but this embroidery is not being confined to wools or silks. There is a lot of straw embroidery, the straw being the soft, silky kind of a pliability rivaling raffia. Particularly good for hats, bags and summer frocks generally is this straw work. Then one sees a lot of ribbon embroidery. Indeed, the ribbon for this work can be bought by the spool in all the new bright shades. It, too, is very soft and more like the bundle wrapping ribbon to be seen at Christmas time. Wide girdles on frocks are showing a single flower worked out with the colored ribbons either directly embroidered through the material or couched on with silk or other ribbon.

BATTLE TIDE TURNED

At Gettysburg the High Hopes of the Confederacy for Victory in Struggle Were Ended.

FIFTY-SIX years ago, at dawn, 70,000 men in gray and 90,000 men in blue were hastening toward a little hamlet in southern Pennsylvania, fiercely seeking to shed each other's blood. Battle-rent banners proclaiming past valor fluttered along their ranks, and cannon rumbled and sabers and bayonets flashed through the hill passes as the hurrying hosts were arrayed by their generals for the coming battle.

The Confederates under General Lee had invaded Pennsylvania from the south, and just one week before, June 22, 1863, Lee had sent 20,000 men yet farther north to capture Harrisburg. They expected that the close of July would find them in possession of Philadelphia. But just as their advance cavalry were pointing their guns across the Susquehanna Lee learned that the Army of the Potomac, under Maj. Gen. George G. Meade, had started from Harper's Ferry in pursuit, and Lee ordered his troops in motion back toward Gettysburg, where twelve turnpike roads concentrated.

General Meade, hurrying his corps northward, came to the outskirts of Gettysburg the night of June 30 with his advance cavalry.

At daybreak July 1 General Buford, leading Meade's cavalry, clashed with General Heth of Hill's Confederate corps, and one of the greatest battles of all time was on. All day the fight raged, as the troops composing the two armies were hurried forward from distant points to take part. At nightfall the Confederates had driven the Union men back from the ground held by them in the morning, on through the streets of Gettysburg, and finally to a line of battle on Cemetery hill and ridge southeast of the town, and during the night the commanders of both armies filled up gaps in their lines and strengthened their positions for the inevitable battle of the morning.

All the second day Lee hurled his brigades against Meade's right and left flanks. Desperate fighting in the celebrated wheat field; desperate fighting in the famous peach orchard; desperate fighting in the Devil's den. Hand-to-hand fighting on Culp's hill, Round Top and Little Round Top. When dark came the Confederates had jammed the Union force further back on their line of battle. They had gained ground, but the ground had only served to make the federal position more compact.

On the third and last day came Lee's final attempt to win, a mighty cannonading of 150 guns at one o'clock in the afternoon hurling death into the Union forces on Cemetery ridge. Then, at 2:30 in the afternoon, an order from Lee, a nod of the head from General Longstreet, for he did not sanction the charge, and away went General Pickett in that most famous charge from the Confederate position on Seminary ridge to the Union center on Cemetery ridge, nearly a mile apart.

That charge made great history. After leading his men to the Union line and piercing it, Pickett was beaten back. The point pierced was a stone wall, known to this day as the Bloody Angle, or "High Water Mark" of the Confederacy.

Lee, from Seminary ridge, saw the charge was a failure and the battle lost. He ordered a retreat and the Army of Northern Virginia departed from the scene of its three-day valorous struggle, but still with sufficient fighting strength and spirit left to continue the conflict for nearly two years longer.

That is the Battle of Gettysburg in a nutshell.

Old Tools of War.

The Grand army veteran will live forever in song and story, but the weapon with which he fought his way to immortality is so much junk today. Carbine, musket and rifle have given way to machine guns, and the clash of sabers, man to man, has been replaced by the purr of long-distance shells. Of the firearms that fill countless racks and cases in the museum at Washington the veteran will find duplicates, lock, stock and barrel, of every weapon he carried in the Civil war, though each has retired from active service to serve as exhibits in the nation's armories of time.

But the flag is still in style. And it is the flag that counts.

General Thomas Great Soldier.

"Old Pap Thomas," as his soldier lovingly called him, has received full credit for his services in the terrific battle of Chickamauga. He has never been given due recognition for his other work, nor assigned a proper place in the hall of fame of the nation he helped to save.

He was a Virginian by birth, and therefore his loyalty at the beginning of the war was subject to unjust though not unnatural suspicion. He declined to supersede General Buell, and thereby lost his chance to win supreme command in the West. The one event was a misfortune; the other a chivalry too fine to be appreciated in the hurry and stress of war.

Might Have Been Worse

An optimistic old Scotchman's favorite expression was, "It micht have been waur." One day a friend said to him, "Tammas, I had a awful dream about ye last nicht. I dreamt ye were dead."

"Aye, man Sandy, that was bad indeed, but it micht have been waur."

"But it is waur," went on the other. "I dreamt ye had gone to the bad place."

"Losh, me, Sandy! Me an elder in the kirk dead an' gone to the bad place. That was awfu', but it micht have been waur."

"Hoo could it have been waur than that?" asked Sandy, amazed.

"Weel, ye ken, it micht hae been true."

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK. UGH!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and can not salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel, just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.—Adv.

THE LURE OF SPRING

When the sun is winking early
In the gray dawn of the east;
And shines all day in his sleepy way,
His warming rays increased;
When the muskrat haunts the marshes
All along the silver stream,
And the blackbird's glee rings out "ch-wee,"
A song like a golden dream;
'Tis then the pulse of days long gone
Beats strong in every vein,
For the lure of spring has a captive ring,
And we are young again.

When the velvet grass is sprinkled
With the dandelion's gold;
And the bumble bees, 'neath the willow trees
Are growing very bold;
When the chubs and redfins gambol
Up and down the old mill race,
And the butterflies and the dreamy skies
Are smiles on nature's face;
'Tis then the memories come once more,
But time should not complain.
For the lure of spring has a captive ring,
And we are young again.
—James A. Ross, in Toronto Mail.

Laugh When People Step On Your Feet

Try this yourself then pass it along to others. It works!

Ouch ! ? ! ? ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you|—Adv.

On Decoration Day

Dr. George B. Cowley

It was an aged veteran, with locks
all thin and gray,
Who sat within the village church
on Decoration day;
He came upon his crutches, with tottering step and slow,
And many winters on his brow had cast their fleeting snow;
His eyes were sunk and feeble, his cheek was pale and wan,
Not like the boy who went out when the cruel war began.

The organ pealed out grandly, "My country, 'tis of thee,"
And youthful voices sang aloud the anthem of the free.
With listless air he watched them,
from the old, familiar pew,
A sad example of the old, supplanted by the new.
No wife or child sat by him—all dead or far away—
Amid the throng he was alone on
Decoration day.

Too weak and lame for walking for many years of late,
A friendly auto bore him to the cemetery gate;

Here, sitting in the welcome shade,
He watched his comrades
come—
A piteous few, but keeping step behind the fife and drum;
Then, leaning on a marble shaft, his dead wife's grave anigh,
He gave salute and waved his hat as the starry flag went by.

The graves were strewn with blossoms; the little flags all placed;
His comrades to the busy town their halting steps retraced;
And the dead slept on in silence, beneath the flowers of May,
Heedless alike of fife and drum and
Decoration day;
But, lingering there among them,
till red the sunset gleamed,
His head sank down upon his breast; he fell asleep and dreamed.

He dreamed of childhood's hour; he heard the robin sing,
And culled again the violets that blossomed by the spring;
With sisters and with brothers, in his happy northern home,
He watched the war-cloud gather,
and heard its thunders come.
His mother's clasp, his sweetheart's kiss, still thrilled him as of yore,
When proudly down the village street he marched out to the war.

He dreamed of soldiers marching—
he saw the deadly fray

Round Vicksburg's walls, on Lookout's height and Shiloh's bloody day:
"Tramp, tramp!" Is this the boy he was, who marches, blithe and free,
With Sherman and with Sherman's men through Georgia to the sea?
"Tramp, tramp!" It is the Grand Review, and Grant is looking on!
Then "taps" were blown, the lights went out, and night and death came down!

* * * * * * *

They found him there next morning; his locks were wet with dew,
And his dead face wore a peaceful smile, as if the angels knew
That this brave old Union soldier had struck his earthly tent
And marched on to that blissful shore, where old Elijah went.
Perhaps from that great camping ground where shines eternal day,
He still looks down and waves his hat on Decoration day.

Appreciation of Books.

"He that loveth a book," said the sage, Isaac Barrow, "will never want a faithful friend a wholesome counselor, a cheerful companion, an effectual comforter."

"THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE"

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared." — Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptons as heat flashes, nervousnsss, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence

CHARLES SUGHROE

Micky the Printer's Devil

We should be thankful that life comes to us in such little bits. We can live one day well enough. It is a blessing that this is all God ever gives us at a time.
J. R. Miller

The Union memorial services at the M. E. Church was well attended and the sermon by Rev J. O. Duncan was highly complimented by some of the old soldiers, who said they believed it was the best memorial sermon they had ever heard.

County Y. M. C. A.

The County Y. M. C. A. must help to solve the problem of economic life of the boy. 75 per cent of college boys do not know where they are at so far as a life work is concerned. They will fail into one job, then into another or another until they finally succeed or fail; they are not guided. This is the Trial-and-Error method tremendously wasteful. Through an analysis of occupations and through an analysis of boys; through an analysis made by parents, by experts and by the boys themselves, the Y. M. C. A. must ultimately help solve the economic problem. Yet our boys have many things their parents did not have. Is the result favorable or not? We trust on the whole, that all is for the best. But with it all, goes a lot of rank poison.

Some of the movies get their lure simply because—only because, they are set in the fringes of decencies, and are conceived to satisfy the sated life of older individuals. These movies are open without discrimination to boys and girls of 9 years and to the citizen who has life behind him. Have the boys and girls of today the power to sift and select from the great panorama unintermittently and often insidiously passing before them?

Dr. Perkins, in conclusion, referred to that department of Y. M. C. A. work known as the County work. He turned to the report of the years work which showed 227 boys studying the Bible, and carrying on the other phases of the fourfold program, and remarked on the small per capita cost of work. He said-and he meant it, that it was the finest report he had seen in a long time. Continuing, he advised that if sometime, someone should be so impressed with the program as to offer a community $50,000 for a building it would be the path of wisdom for that community to ask that the money be used to get another man rather than to erect a building. For, said he, it is exceedingly difficult to do the essential work of the Y. M. C. A. when it is hampered by equipment work. Yet Dr. Perkins is the Executive Secretary of the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. which, in operation, requires half as many men as the Salvation Army had in France during the war. Dr. Perkins is ever insistant that the non-equipment plan of Y. M. C. A. work is best for Rural districts; and he is inclined to believe that the non-equipment plan which will be adopted universally in the future of City work. Why? Because no money, no time, no energy is lost in the running of the non-equipment work, every ounce of energy going directly into man product

Dr. Perkins closed by emphasizing the all around duty and privilege of the Y. M. C. A. in its relations with men and boys.

Yosemite Highway

It is to your interest to help make California's world renowned Yosemite National Park accessible by Automobile winter and summer. It will give you added opportunity for enjoyment, and attract many tourists to this State.

A paved highway below snow-line and not over seven per cent. grade will be constructed to Yosemite if a sufficient number help now. Money obtained by sale of certificates of admission will be used to pave this proposed highway under the direction of the State Highway Commission. These certificates are issued by authorty of the Federal Government and cost only the regular admission price of $5.00. Each certificate will entitle the holder to enter and re-enter Yosemite Park by automobile or motorcycle during any official year.

Every motorist should wish to see the Yosemite in winter as well as help rid the trip of dust in summer. Therefore they should buy certificates and campaign for this movement for a paved highway. All purchasers of certificates will secure cards showing that they have, by their public interest, contributed toward this beneficial highway. Certificates may be secured from May 22 to June 7th in Campbell from the Bank, J. C. Ainsley Packing Company, and the Orchard City Drug Company. YOSEMITE VALLEY HIGH-WAY ASSOCIATION.

Boost For Campbell

Sol. Jacobs, Manager of the Campbell Branch of the California Canneries Co., who are making extensive improvements on their cannery, in an interview made the following statement: I have returned from the front only a short time and I see great posibilities for the future in store for Campbell and its surroundings.

I believe a great deal can be accomplished by the cooperation of all of the canneries and packing houses and growers here to improve the conditions for labor, both male and female, and incidentally build up the town. For instance after the season is over we could all get together and establish a good sized Cafeteria for the accomidation of all, and also possibly one place could be had for living purposes for all. This would bring together a large body of labor that would probably settle definitely and thus improve business conditions. We could also possibly have a moving picture show and other beneficial and healthful pleasures to employ the hours after the days labor is done. On these and similar lines I feel sure that other districts would sit up and take notice in the near future.
SOL. Jacobs.

The May Festival
Campbell High School

For its May Festival this year, Campbell Union High School is presenting a rare treat! The entertainment consists of Shakespeare's A "Midsummer Nights Dream." You will doubtless remember the May Festival of last year, "The Idylls of the King," and the exceptionally fine material the high school student body affords for a large production such as last year's Festival was, and this year's is even finer. You enjoyed "The Idylls of the Kihg" and now you have the chance to enjoy "A Mid Summer Night's Dream" this year for it is being very well presented and is staged out of doors. Due to the lovely flowers and greenery that is available at present, the stage is appropriately and beautifully decorated for forest scenes. There is seating capacity for seven hundred people, so those of you who did not come on Thursday evening be sure to be on time and you will be sure of obtaining a good seat Saturday evening. Last Wednesday morning, May 28, a presentation of the play was given to the grammar school children and each child was admitted free of charge. The plays for the adults have been dated for Thursday and Saturday nights, May 28, and 31. The admittance price for either of the evening entertainments is thirty five cents for either adults or children, and you evidently know by now that the money procured goes to support our nine little French orphans. The characters in the play are divided into three distinct groups—the fairies; the mechanicals; the mortals; each one playing his part superfine. Laura Blaine, the fairy queen, Titania, is exceptionally beautiful, and fairy like in the dainty costume, while Edward Day, who plays the fairy King part, Oberon, is equally as graceful. The mortal king and queen are Roy Bartholomew, Theseus, and Edwyna Page, Hippolyta. The lovers, who play their part to perfection are; Lysander — Raymond Hulseman, Demetrius—Oscar Seagren. Helena — Helen Kalas. Everyone will enjoy the mechanicals. George Guhe was made for Bottom's part. Other clowns are: Fred Heinzen—Quince, Leslie Cairns—Starveling, Melvin Cairns—Flute, Harold Ouimet—Snug, Vincent Lopes — Snout. Be sure and come and you will thoroughly enjoy it from start to finish. Those who have seen it praise it throughout and will be there again on Saturday evening if possible,

Women's Christian Temperance Union Begins Drive

Friends-Attention! The National Womans Christian Temperance Union is making a drive for a million dollars. Away back yonder a little group of Christian women with a world vision started this great organization, and now the women who have worked so faithfully are begining to see the fruits of all their labors. Their work embraces in its forty three departments every thing that is for the betterment of the world today. They were pioneers in child welfare work;-the first to take up the cudgels in defense of the laboring woman. Their rescue work is far reaching, they are spending money freely to enforce the Red Light abatement law. During the period of the war they have emptied their coffers doing and giving to the war work and now they need money; money for all their department work—and money to help fuifil their vision of a dry World in 1925.

In all other drives Campbell has gone over the top and now we ask your help to send the Women's Christian Temperance Union drive over the top. Give something,-have a share in this great work! Donations large or small will be thankfully received, and may be left with Mrs. Mae Whitman' local key woman of the drive, or Mrs. Clara Baldwin, President of the W. C. T. U.

Alice In Wonderland

Too high praise cannot be given the production of "Alice In Wonderland" by the Cambrian school Wednesday night.

Played out of doors, with no artificial accessories it was a success from the beautiful May Dance to the closing scene of the play.

The different scenes were announced by pages, representing chess men, who carried numbered cards.

Ten scenes, possible of portrayal with no stage settings other than the addition of a table or chairs gave a very interesting and comprehensive idea of the book. They were Alice Asleep, the White Rabbit, Duchess, Tea Party, White Queen, Flower Scene, Red Queen, Tweedledum and Tweedledee, Queen Alice and Alice Awake. The costuming of all the characters was very true to detail and showed a great deal of work in preparation. The "Daisies" who danced in the Flower scene were veritable "flowers" and elicited much praise.

One would like to give each participant special mention as they were all deserving of it, but their number precludes that. The part of Alice was taken by Ruth Matteson and was remarkably well given both as to naturalness and memorizing of so much.

The cast of characters follows:

Alice	Ruth Matteson
Big Sister	Beatrice Ralston
White Rabbit	Leonard Guldman
Frog Butler	Harry Hastings
The Cook	Irene Metzler
The Duchess	Katherine Farwell
Mad March Hare	Willie Dreisback
Hatter	Harold Gardner
Dormouse	John Duncan
White Qneen	Helen Jones
White King	Clarence Moffit
Tiger Lily	Dorothy Duncan
Rose	Anna Brcmont
Larkspur	Ruth Townsend
Violet	Dora Finnemore
Red Queen	Frances Duncan

Tweedledum	Bert Matteson
Tweedledee	Richard Shelly

Resolutions of Symyathy.

The Conntry Womans Club of Campbell wish to express their sympathy to to the Rev. D, M. Marshman and his family in the recent death of Mrs. Marshman. During her residence in Campbell Mrs. Marshman was a valued and a very helpful member of the Club, ever willing to give her best efforts to promote the work of the club and the wellfare of the community. In the passing from earth of one so warm hearted and helpful we as members of the club feel a personal sense of loss, although realizing that all good work continues, and that nothing lost that is done for humanity and the furtherance of God's work in the world

Committee of the Woman's Club.

Grammar School 'Y'

The Campbell Group of the Grammar school Y. M. C. A. met at their club room in the Congregational Church Thursday evening, May 22 with all the officers and members present. The leader, Mr. Fred Bohrman, was in charge of the social hour that followed the usual routine of business

This meeting, in the eyes of the small boys was the most important one held since the forming of the club. Each one came with something good in his basket. Under the leader's supervision the tables were soon spread and what a fine time all these small boys had! Only one who has been a boy with a love for salad and ice cream and cake can judge of the very satisfying hour that followed. The secretary, Perry Shelly, reported plans still indefinite as to this group's summer camping trip. Perry Shelly, Secretary.

Rev. G. E. Atkinson has resigned his pastorate at Martines to take effect July 1st. Mr. Atkinson anticipates entering the Y. M. C. A work permanently. Mrs. Atkinson hopes to spend next week in Campbell.

A C, E, State Convention Rally Picnic.

There was a gathering of the Chrintian Endeavorer clans of the Third District Saturday evening at Los Gatos! When they had aasembled some 60 in number, the first stunt was a hike up the canyon nearly to Alma. A huge bonfire was built and by its light games were played and later when weary of activity the company gathered around for story telling. Mr. and Mrs. Martin of Alameda told a number of funny stories and also talked "Long Beach State C, E. Convention."

Others added their bit to boost for the State convention and rally songs were sung. Roasted "weenies" buns, coffee, and toasted marshmallows added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion, and altogether it was a very enjoyable affair and was participated in by a number of the Campbell C. E's.
